An Appointment Can Have No Value Unless Confirmed.

The President Looking for a Man Who Would Not Use Office with Partisan Intent—Democratic Editors in Opposition Can Themselves Listen to the Promises of the Administration—Democrats Looking to the Republican Offices—Other National Affairs.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—The President has in the last working day of the week to attend to nothing but the appointments to the Senate. Everything else must wait. Those who go to the White House expecting to see the President on any other business will be disappointed. Those who go to see him about appointments will be disappointed. Those who go to see him about appointments will be disappointed. Those who go to see him about appointments

Sift This Out.

Indisputably lowest prices and our reliable clothing have gained us the largest retail clothing business in the land.

We have nothing to cover up: our goods are fairly sold to customers under a guarantee, with quality told open and above-board.

Isn't that better than the ordinary way of trade? What is the ordinary way of trade? Your eyes are your market. If you buy and make a mine of it, it's your own fault. Not so at this establishment.

How are we able to do so well for you? Are you curious?

Facilities count: we are manufacturers, twenty-five years at our work, buying and making under the most favorable conditions.

Generous dealing counts: we put every help in the way of customers to get the quality, style, price of goods they are after. We hold ourselves ready to return the money, if the customer takes the clothing home, finds dissatisfied and brings it back.

With all these peculiar helps to wise buying, we make prices that cannot be cut under.
